

"Video game time is always the biggest draw for them, but we also have to look out to find how to give kids the kind of opportunities they don't have in schools," said Le. "Have them have fun and learn something here."